Pre-transcript introduction

Queer Out Here

Queer Out Here is an audio zine that explores the outdoors from queer perspectives. We've collected all kinds of interesting outdoors-related sound pieces to add to the mix for Issue 01, which will be released in early February 2018. You can read more about the zine on the Queer Out Here website: <https://www.queerouther.com>.

Transcript

[Footsteps]

Gary and Ruth: You're listening to Queer Out Here!

[Faint sound of waves]

Aubri: Who else is out here? Who else is silly enough to be out here today?

Erin: Beachside in the winter

[Faint sound of dogs barking]

Voice: The problem with ice is that you can't see where the edge of the ice is [fade out] -

Wendy: Gonna throw myself in!

Voice: - [fade in] water, because the water goes over the top of the ice flow.

[Sound of insects and crickets]

Allysse: Until I dive in.

Adele: Just think of all the sordid things that have probably happened around these trees...

Aubri: There is a gigantic moose butt!

Jonathan: Aware of place and pace and time measured in heartbeat -

Aubri: Who else is out here?

Jonathan: - and cloudheight.

[Sound of singing over a loudspeaker]

Jo: Can I just look and record some sound of the rain?

Erin: Cold and fresh...

Liz: The woods of their memories dipped in ice sheets and snow.

Belinda: Still the ragged lady gums dance their set across the river bridge.

[Sound of wind and waves]

Adele: These trees have seen that.

Jenny: I've lived in this part of the world all my live and, ah -

[Sound of close up water]

Adele: One for sorrow, two for joy...

Jenny: - before I came out of the closet as trans i still walked around on New Year's Day -

EZ: I guess there is a farm?

Jenny: - in a pair of old wellies and a pair of old jeans and a jumper, just as I am at the moment.

[Faint sounds of waves]

Aubri: Who else is out here?

Liz: Minnesota midnight, he slides in and out of the fast lane of his dreams.

[Faint music]

Belinda: Just get in the car and go.

[Music and ambience increases]

Sam: And you're listening to Queer Out Here.
